

PROTECT THE ONES YOU LOVE THIS VALENTINE'S

Bradford security specialists Henry Lewis & Son are determined to show their love for their customers this Valentine's Day by offering them a fantastic security package to help them protect their loved ones and property.

The firm, run by local husband and wife team Brett and Suzanne Smith, are offering price matches on their high quality range of security grilles against any other competitors' product, plus they will include a free 12 month service by their experienced team, worth over £100.

Suzanne, the sixth generation of the Lewis family to run the business, explains the benefits of their Valentine's deal. She says; "We all know that home is where the heart is, so this Valentine's Day we thought we'd give our customers a bit of extra loving support to help them make sure that their most valuable possessions stay safe. It is also a well known fact that when recession bites, crime increases."

"Our products are renowned for their high quality fabrication, and with this price match and free service customers can be assured that they will love the secure feeling these grilles will bring too!"

Henry Lewis & Son has fitted security grilles to over 2000 homes and businesses in the Bradford area, and in some of their products are still protecting their owners over 20 years later.
